

WEST POINT MEN AT HORSE SHOW

One Hundred Cadets in Uniform
Visit Their Friends in the Boxes and Watch Performances in Jumping Events.

SOME OF THEM TO RIDE
THE HUNTERS TO-NIGHT.

Great Interest Taken in Judging of Street-Cleaning Horses Driven by "White Wings" of Major Woodbury's Force.

A bright bit of color was added to the flashing hues mingled in the promenade by the uniforms of 100 West Point cadets who had the freedom of the Garden this afternoon. The cadets are all of the senior class, who are making a holiday of it, visiting their friends and sweethearts in the boxes and criticising the performances of the hunters in the jumping events. Several have been invited to take a mount, and as their horsemanship is of the highest order some spirited riding is promised this evening.

Another feature of the day's programme that provoked no little interest was the judging of seventeen street-cleaning horses driven by "White Wings" to the familiar city chariot. This event, open only to horses and carts of the New York Street-Cleaning Department, to be judged on the condition of the horses, was marked by a high spirit of rivalry. The horses have such high-sounding names as Black Diamond, Flora, Evangeline, Dolly Gray and Irish Boy. The Manhattan White Wings had the superiority of numbers, Brooklyn showing only seven. The Brooklyn sweepers claimed a higher degree of breeding for their exhibits.

No Lagging of Interest.
There was no evidence of lagging interest when the judging began to-day. The only familiar figures on the promenade and in the boxes who were missed were the ladies and gentlemen of the stage. The matinee kept them away. The old-time horse-show habitués say that never before have the fair ones of histrionic bent turned out in such brilliant array. Prominent among those popular favorites have been Gertrude and Maxine Elliott, whose stirring resemblance and rare beauty have attracted wide attention, although both were simply gowned.

In the first number shown to-day, shieland stallions not exceeding forty-six inches—Edwin F. Hawley's Bessy, of Pittsford, won his second blue ribbon. The red, yellow and white ribbons went to Master Thomas L. Watt, Jr.'s ponies—Monte Carlo, Toronto and Red Fox. In class No. 2 for road and brood mares with foal the ribbons were awarded to Master Watt's ponies—the blue to Gladys, the red to North, the yellow to Donna Fabrina and the H. C. to Primrose.

White Wings in the Ring.
A long sustained blast on Happy Harry Wilcox's bugle sounded in the clanking chariots of the Street Cleaning Department. In the tankard oval were Street Cleaning Commissioner Wilcox and Deputy Police Commissioner Piper. At the fourth avenue entrance Brooklyn and Manhattan white wings pressed about the rails and watched the manoeuvres of the dump carts, some in the heat of the excitement for the quarter-bets on the chances of their favorites. When big Harry, a spirited Manhattan wheel, broke into a trot there was a wild shout of enthusiasm.
Then the judges finally whispered in consultation only the humming of the iron chariots and the rumbling whistles of the horses could be heard above the tense stillness. What two Manhattan and three Manhattan carts took the lead there were loud hisses.
There was a tremendous shout of applause when the blue ribbon was awarded to Jack, of stable G, Manhattan. The shout was followed by a famous yell of the Manhattan White Wings: "Sweetest de ash! de ash! de ash! Sie! Sie! all! garbage!" The judges fairly rang with this rousing yell when the red ribbon went to big Harry, also from stable G, Manhattan. The yellow and white ribbons went to Major and Dan, of stable G, Brooklyn, whereupon the stable G. Brooklyn white wings broke out with their hurling cry of "Buck! shovel, shovel, shovel! and broom! quill! quill! quill! Brooklyn! sweepers!"

Class 99—Shieland ponies not exceeding 46 inches—Brassay of Pittsford was beaten by Mr. Watt's Monte Carlo. Brassay was driven by little Miss Hawley, who said philosophically after the award: "Well, an occasional red ribbon breaks the monotony. Master Watt's Nannie and Red Fox won third and fourth prizes."

WOMAN DEAD ON AN ALBANY BOAT

Supposed to Be Mrs. E. C. Gorman, of Philadelphia, and It Is Thought She Took Overdose of Powerful Medicine.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 21.—The dead body of a woman about forty years old was found in a steamer on the steamer Adirondack, on the People's line of night boats, after her arrival here from New York this morning. She is supposed to be Mrs. E. C. Gorman, of Philadelphia.

She had been dead but a short time, and is thought to have taken accidentally an overdose of powerful medicine. Coroner Gurwain has the body and will hold an autopsy.

The woman was travelling alone. A small black grip was her only baggage, and in this was a small hand dictionary upon the fly leaf of which was written, "E. C. Gorman, Philadelphia." A couple of handkerchiefs, toilet articles and $4.13 in money was all the woman had. Coroner Schupp telegraphed to Philadelphia to learn the identity of the woman if possible. No reply to his inquiry has been received. The woman boarded the steamer at New York and secured a state-room, giving the name of Mrs. Gorman.

27 WORKMEN DIED IN FIRE FIGHTING TO SAVE MONEY

Shanty, in Which 125 Slept, Ablaze, and Many
After Wild Struggle to Escape Run
Back for Their Hoardings.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 21.—While over 100 Italian railroad laborers were asleep in a shanty near Lilly, Pa., on the Pennsylvania Railroad, early to-day the building caught fire and before the foreigners could escape at least twenty-seven men were burned to death and a score or more were seriously injured.
The men were employed by McMenamin & Sims, on the Pennsylvania Railroad improvements between Lilly and Portage. There were 500 on the job, all Italians, and in the shanty which burned were 125 of these. The building, about 100 feet long, one story in height and built in the usual style of such quarters.

The eastern end was devoted to the cooking and eating, while the men slept in bunks like sardines in a can in the western end. There was only one door at each end and the windows were few and small.

The fire is supposed to have started from an overheated stove in the eastern end. The building burned like tinder, and the flames were upon the men before any of them were aroused.
Then began a struggle for the outside and life. They fought and scrambled for the doors, and the weaker were crushed down and trampled on. Others were roasted to death there.

Those who ran for the door were in the wildest sort of panic. They fought and kicked, and among those who escaped there are many who bear marks of the fierce strife which took place in this battle for life. A few got out of the small windows, minus clothes, and with their bodies cut from broken glass. Many who did manage to get out had their savings of years in their trunks, which they left behind them in the building. Remembering this fact as soon as they got outside, they fought just as fiercely to get back. A few succeeded, but for the sake of their hoarded treasure they gave up their lives.

In the ruins to-day some of the corpses were close beside the hooped bands of their trunks, and melted gold and silver which had been kept in their receptacles indicated that they had fallen and died with their treasure in their arms. The bodies were all practically burned to cinders. An Italian who looked at them to-day and who knew every man in the shanty, was unable to identify a single one.

When George Hoffman surprised his friends in the club the other night by announcing his change of mind regarding matrimony it was suggested a beefsteak dinner be given as a farewell reminder to George of his "merry bachelor days."
The dinner was given last night in the Waubun Cafe, near the Thirty-fourth street ferry.

DR. A. H. JOHNSTON SUED FOR DIVORCE

No Defense Made by Dentist
Who Lived with Marie Layton, Now in Sing Sing for Embezzling $35,000.

Testimony was taken in Justice Keogh's Supreme Court, at White Plains, to-day in a suit for absolute divorce brought by Mrs. Helen E. Johnston, formerly a prominent society belle of Paterson, N. J., against Dr. Albert M. Johnston, the fifth avenue dentist, who was living with Marie Layton, the embezzler of $35,000 worth of the funds of the United States Playing Card Company of Manhattan.
There was no opposition to the suit. Miss Layton who is serving an indeterminate sentence in Sing Sing prison for embezzlement, was named as co-respondent. It was shown that Dr. Johnston married the plaintiff at Paterson on July 14, 1897, and they lived together only about one year.

At the time of Miss Layton's arrest she was living as the wife of Dr. Johnston at Larchmont-on-the-Sound, and Lawyer H. F. Lawrence, of No. 68 Park Row, submitted evidence to that effect.

Lawyer Lawrence also called Catherine Price, a landlady of an apartment house at No. 153 West Eighty-third street, Manhattan, who testified that Dr. Johnston resided there with Marie Layton as his wife from November, 1898, to November, 1900.
Judge Keogh will not grant the decree until he reads the testimony.

MADE LOVE WHILE LIVING IN STABLE

Paul McCornac, Eccentric Young
Bachelor, Defendant in a Suit for Alienation of Charles E.
Converse's Wife's Affections.

MAN OF MANY QUEER PRANKS

Once Sent a Fictitious Notice of His Wedding to a New Haven Society
Girl Just to Hoax a Poughkeepsie
Reporter, He Explained.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Nov. 21.—The suit for $50,000 brought against Paul McCornac by Charles E. Converse, who charges that the young and eccentric bachelor alienated his wife's affections, will be the first called on Monday. The story behind the suit has never been told. As both were prominent socially before they left Poughkeepsie there is great interest in the trial.
McCornac has been almost constantly before the public since his father died several years ago, leaving him an estate valued at more than $500,000. He soon sold the handsome home on Hyde Park road to Mr. Converse, a wealthy dry-goods merchant. He fitted up luxurious apartments on the second floor of his barn that he might be near his horses.

The barn was only a short distance from the Converse home, and the young man was a frequent visitor there. The house was suddenly closed, and Mr. and Mrs. Converse moved to a hotel. McCornac closed his apartments and went to the same hotel.

Stung by the disgrace of the gossip, Mr. Converse disposed of his business interests and left the city. McCornac also left and has since lived in New York. He had his fine string of horses shipped there, and he is now a prominent figure on the Speedway.
Early in the summer McCornac had Converse arrested in New York and taken before a Magistrate, charged with making threats. Mr. Converse was discharged and the suit for damages was filed soon afterward.

A year or more ago McCornac sent a notice to a New York paper that he had been married to a young woman in New Haven. A few days later he admitted that he had sent the notice as a joke, thinking to "get even" with a Poughkeepsie reporter. He never explained how he thought the joke would work.
The young man once clashed with the police by exploding several sticks of dynamite near his barn in the middle of the night. He said the stuff was in his barn, and he did not know what else to do with it.
